WHEN TO PLANT: Late September or early October.

Where and how: Plant with base six or seven inches below surface of ground, in friable soil where moisture is available (but not where water stands).

BULBS FOR NATURALIZING. Nearly all varieties of daffodils are good for naturalizing, i.e. planting in grass or in a light woods, without cultivation or digging for a number of years. Gay patches of yellow daffs will lend beauty and charm to your yard and garden in the early spring, and they will require little or no care. The bulbs will continue to bloom for many years without attention, although of course the individual flowers will not be so large after the multiplication of the bulbs has caused them to become crowded.

A mixture will lengthen the time of blooming and give variety to the planting. (Our mixtures bloom over a period of four to six weeks, each variety staying in bloom for ten days to two weeks.) A planting of all one variety will give a more brilliant effect when in bloom however as the whole patch will be golden at one time. (For planting in drifts of different varieties, we recommend our peck offers of Emperors and Sir Watkins, as these hardy bulbs are wonderful naturalizers, and will bloom splendidly year after year without attention.)
